Council names new Airport Authority directors

At its Dec. 13 meeting, City Council appointed four new directors to replace outgoing appointments on Campbell River's Airport Authority board.

Gordon Chu, Joe Crashaw and Susan Sinnott were appointed for a three-year term. Roy Grant was appointed for a two-year term. Crashaw and Sinnott are returning board members whose one-year term had expired. Chu is new to the Campbell River Airport Authority, but not to airport management. He has extensive experience working with Vancouver International Airport marketing. Roy Grant was previously a Council liaison to the Airport Authority.

The Airport Authority oversees the growth and operations of the Campbell River Airport. The Board is responsible for setting the authority's strategic direction, for making decisions for the authority and for overseeing the management of the authority's business and affairs.
