New year, new start: help Campbell River move forward in 2013

You're full of ideas.

You want to share them with City Council.

You work well with other people who have a different perspective.

You have the skills and experience that support community development.

You're ready to tackle tough questions – and make things happen.

So become part of City Council's decision-making process by joining an advisory commission.

Things have changed, and you're invited to be part of the difference.

Council has re-vamped its committee structure and invites members of the public to apply for appointment on one of two new commissions.

Community Services, Recreation & Culture Commission – provides policy advice and recommendations to City Council about City parks, recreation and culture services, early childhood development, seniors and youth programs, community support services, organized sports, visual arts, performing arts, heritage conservation, outdoor recreation, community beautification and community safety.

Team includes 12 members:

- Councillors Kerr, Samson and Storry;
- 9 (nine) members of the public with related experience / expertise

Advisory Planning & Environment Commission – provides policy advice and recommendations to City Council on issues related to long-range planning such as the Official Community Plan, land use and development planning, permitting and development application processes, transportation planning and environmental and sustainability issues.

Team includes 12 members:

- Councillors Adams, Mennie and Moglove;
- 3 (three) members with experience / expertise in land development and architecture, landscape architecture, engineering, surveying, community planning, building construction;
- 3 (three) members with experience in sustainability, conservation, environmental protection;
- 1 (one) member with experience / expertise in economics or finance;
- 1 (one) member with experience / expertise with social issues affecting Campbell River;
- 1 (one) member of the public at large.

To join Council's go-to teams and help build an even better Campbell River, apply by 4:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 21.
