Free session on changes to BC Building Code and permit application requirements

The City of Campbell River is holding free sessions for local builders and developers on amendments to the BC Building Code that came into effect in December. Sessions will also introduce new requirements for City building permit applications.

"We are offering this session on multiple days, so people have several opportunities to attend and find out how these changes in part 9 of the BC Building Code will improve the overall livability of houses while lowering energy consumption and greenhouse gas emissions," says Brad Callander, the City's building inspector.

The free sessions take place from 9 a.m. until noon on Jan. 28, 30 and Feb. 4, 2015 in the Enterprise Centre. Hot beverages and mid-morning snacks will be provided.

To register, please call 250-286-5725 or email planning@campbellriver.ca.
