The new gravel drop-off zone and parking lot for Haig Brown House and Kingfisher Creek have now been completed! These new lots will provide a much safer access and parking area for members of the public visiting the site and Greenways Land Trust (GLT) volunteers who provide landscaping maintenance work onsite.

Please note: Effective July and August, between 10:00 am and 3:00 pm, parking in the new lot is restricted to 10 minutes only, to ensure adequate space for parents to deliver children to the Haig Brown House summer camps. Access is unrestricted for the remainder of the year.

The Greenways Land Trust is a registered charity and conservation organization that works to enhance recreational and ecological greenways for people and wildlife. Operating since 1996, GLT continues to support volunteers, initiate projects and foster partnerships that work towards our goals and mission.

Erin Nowak, Operations Manager with Greenways Land Trust says, “We are very excited to see this project completed – it provides invaluable safe, access and a drop off location for the public to enjoy the legacy of Haig Brown Family on the banks of the Campbell River. Thank you to the City of Campbell River Staff and Councillor Samson for being instrumental players in seeing this project completed for 2014 summer camp season.”
